Music and Wellness – Samantha Calmes, TRT and Heather Brown, CTRS, TRS: In this session we will be discussing the evidence behind the use of music as a contributor toward improving wellness and overall wellbeing. We will be learning a few useful interventions that may be applied in a group setting and/or 1:1's for a variety of populations.

Interventions for Individuals with Trach and Vents – Kristina Couron, MTRS, CTRS: In this session we will be discussing ways to overcome barriers for providing evidenced based approaches to individuals using a trach and/or vent. We will learn a variety of interventions and ways to provide better care for individuals experiencing respiratory limitations.

Evaluating your Recreation Therapy Program – Amy Stoeger, MTRS, CTRS: This session reviews the importance of the evaluation of the APIE process and discusses how to implement both your programming and the interventions you are providing.

Using Expressive Arts as a Means to Address Both Low/High Functioning Residents – Heather Brown, M.S., CTRS: This session will be discussing the evidence based use of expressive art for both low and high functioning residents. We will be learning interventions and doing hands-on activities to teach the benefit of using art as a means for improving mood and self expression.

Guest Speaker: Karleen Broadwater—Karleen is a certified Silver Sneaker instructor and will be discussing multiple ways to bring physical exercise to your residents inside and outside of your community.

Cost: $100 per person before 12/31/14, after 01/01/15 the cost is $115. Return form and payments to:
